GROUNDBREAKING REPORTING ON WOMEN

The Fuller Project is the award-winning global nonprofit newsroom dedicated to objective, groundbreaking reporting on women, to raise awareness, expose injustice and spur accountability.

Our correspondents in the U.S. and around the globe rigorously report on untold stories and the interconnected issues affecting women and their communities everywhere.

Our reporting often leads the news cycle and is published in prominent outlets, bringing the full story to a large and diverse audience. The Fuller Project's investigative journalism has helped end harmful practices, led to large scale releases of public data and contributed to the introduction of new legislation.

The Fuller Project is named for the first U.S. female war correspondent, Margaret Fuller.
